Interim Ministry training is to prepare leaders to help congregations make the most of the time between the departure of one pastor and the calling of another. This In-between, liminal time for congregations can be filled with anxiety and apprehension or hope and anticipation for transformation. A trained interim/transitional pastor can lead a congregation through grief and anxiety, learning, growth and discovery. Come to learn how to empower congregations and walk with them as they walk the transitional journey with purpose and intention., according to the Spirit's call.
